Values

The centrality of the individual: our cultural commitment is geared to the training of managers, professionals and entrepreneurs capable not only of excelling for their competency, but of distinguishing themselves for their capacity of putting the individual (customers, employees, the public opinion) at the center of their actions, thus playing a role in a healthier development of the economy and of society. We are, in fact, working towards a new economic humanity.

An ethical and socially responsible approach to enterprise: we believe that the pursuit of business targets must be linked to – and can actually be positively supported by – scrupulous care for the environment, for society in general and for future generations.

Multiculturalism: we consider globalization processes to be a great opportunity to exploit and to open up to promote the coming together, the understanding and the reciprocal valorization of cultures and ideas, the variety of which represents a source of economic and spiritual richness and not a danger to be wary of.

Multi-disciplinarity: we believe that the complexity of the new economic and social scenarios requires the acquisition of advanced capabilities to understand and manage them. For this reason, our teaching approach is geared to provide, as much as possible, a multi-disciplinary and integrated training and to provide new insights into the phenomena and dynamics of our time.

Learning Community: we are convinced of the value of shared intelligence and of each individual’s capability of making a contribution in terms of ideas and of knowledge. For this reason, together with our alumni, teachers and partners, our aim is to create a community of people who, through reciprocal exchanges, develops, improves, creates opportunities and plays a part, as a whole, in each other’s professional and cultural development.

Mission

Rome Business School’s mission is to train entrepreneurs, managers and professionals to a level of excellence in their competence and their ethical approach to business and work, able to play a part in the development of an economic humanity and of a society more prosperous, fair and respectful of the central role of the individual.

Vision

An entrepreneurial school which, from Rome – the eternal city, cradle of a millennial civilization – opens its doors to the world to promote the professional development of students, professionals and entrepreneurs, to whom it provides top level competency, together with an ethical and socially responsible mindset both as professionals and individuals.

A global learning community, which creates opportunities for economic and personal growth, through the involvement of all its alumni, teachers, partners and friends.
Master’s degrees

The Rome Business School’s Master programmes offer professional training courses in the fields of: General Management, Marketing, Human Resources, Cultural Management, Political Marketing and E-Health Management. The Master programmes available are:

1-year MBA: Compared to a traditional two-year programme, the Rome Business School’s 1-year MBA provides a faster return on investment. The programme is structured to enable you to continue to work full-time and study for your MBA part-time, connecting what you learn to current global and relevant organisational issues. This is ideal if you are unable to take significant time out of work to study and want greater flexibility over how, when and where you achieve your MBA qualification.

Master in Marketing and Communications: The Master in Marketing and Communications at the Rome Business School is an ideal choice for the professional looking for a world-class degree programme in these subjects, to start or consolidate a successful career in an international environment. The quality of the teaching, paid international internships and the career and networking services on offer all contribute to making this programme the perfect fit for those who seek to excel in the job market and in global business.

Master in International Human Resources: The excellence of the teaching, the international style and the development of new talent are the defining aspects of this Master’s Degree. For those who want to invest in their future and wish to play an important and responsible role in the field of human resources, the Master in International Human Resources Management is the ideal course towards the achievement of their goals and aspirations.

Master in Arts and Culture Management: The Master comes from the increasingly strong knowledge of the inseparable link between the managerial skills in the cultural field and the economic development of a specific geographic area. This interesting training course aims to develop a category of professionals in great rise in the labor market. The quality of teaching and the educational excellence of the teachers selected for the Master in Cultural Management of Rome Business School allow both a wide and detailed preparation. The economic development is increasingly depending on the cultural sector and the access to the latter can provide many job opportunities and personal and professional growth and development.

Master in Political Marketing: Working in politics has never required as many professional competencies as in this historical period. Playing an active role in an electoral campaign on the life of a party, but also writing about politics on a daily basis, are activities that, without specific training and without the mastery of the most up-to-date techniques, risk being unproductive. In such a framework, the Master in Political Marketing has been designed to enable all those who wish to be or are already involved in these topics to acquire a store of operational knowledge and capabilities of excellence that will support them in concretely contributing to the results.

Master in E-Health Management: E-Health is the combined use of information technology and electronic communication, especially the internet, in the health sector, for clinical, educational and administrative purposes; both on-site and at distance (in which case it is called Telemedicine).

The Rome Business School’s Master’s Degree Course in E-Health Management - Under the patronage of SIT (Italian Society of Telemedicine) - has been designed to supply training on organizational processes and technologies aimed at the proper introduction and management of ICT solutions and Telemedicine in Health Systems.

The programme’s quality teaching and networking services all contribute to make it the perfect fit for anyone who is looking to rise to the top in the world of farming, food production, or in the start-up agribusiness system.

LeARn To

«LeARn To» is the Rome Business School’s exclusive programme aimed at learning and doing business through art, included in the Master’s Degree course. Exhibitions, conferences, concerts and movies for a 360° cultural growth.

The Rome Business School intends to use art in its rich training potential. Art as a means to remove barriers and stereotypes, as a way to facilitate communication, as a development of creativity, as an opportunity for personal and collective insights. Art in its metaphoric value, a symbol of social and organisational life.

Art’s didactic value stems from its innate capability to generate a multitude of educational processes in individuals and stimulate a vast array of forms of learning. Art can be the context within which to nurture expressive potentialities and observational and relational capabilities, the starting point for an “artistic/educational” journey through which cognitive experience can be focused onto the integration in an international professional sphere. In fact, through art, it is possible to learn to communicate by means of a universal language where differences become riches. Together with an interactive educational design context, it is possible to pursue an even more innovative educational integration between technical and communicational training.
